Mr. Ellsworth offers a reward of five dollars for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who broke into the Temple Theatre last Monday night and misplaced the books, strewing many upon the floor.

Tuesday afternoon all the classes of the high school organized for the school year. The seniors elected Laudra Nielson president, Helen Bingham secretary, and Roy Milnes treas urer. The juniors elected Carlton Meilstrup, Axel Peterson, Mildred Corwin and Frank Shanahan president, vice president, secretary and reasurer respectively. The sophomores chose Roy Case for president. Herman Sorenson vice president, Fern Armstrong secretary, and Mary Cassidy treasurer. The freshmen elected Virginia Bingham, Erdine McNeven, Percy Failing and Lucile McPhee for the same respective offices. Percy Failing was the only boy of his class who attended the class meeting. His heroism was rewarded as you will note y the above list.

The enrollment in the several departments of school is as follows; first grade, 48; second grade: 43; third, 34; ourth, 55; fifth, 63; sixth, 57; seventh, 27; eighth, 30. South Side: first primary, 46; second primary, 48. High school, 65. Total enrollment, 521.

A Word to All

The work of the Sisters of Mercy is the work of humanity. To relieve human suffering without regard to race or creed, is the object of their lives. Food and clothing are all the Sisters receive for their life of toil. It is all they ask for themselves in this world, but they desire to enlarge every year in their field of usefulness to the sick and suffering. They ask you to co-operate with them and become co-workers of mercy in their vocation. Most of the patients pay their own charges, but there are many, many others whose circumstances prevent them from doing so, thus seeking relief in time of sickness from the Sisters.

From the first of January to July of this year, charity work has amounted to not less than $900 besides many uncollected bills. During January the charity amounted to $180, February $60, March $200, April $160, May $80, June $100, July $120. Also countless meals were given to men who were in search of work. We estimate the charity work from the opening of the hospital to January, 1915, to be about $4500. From January 1st, 1915, to the present time, the Crawford county work amounted to $12.47 in February and a standing statement of $32.00 for April, totaling $44.47. Since the opening of the hospital 950 patients have registered for treatment and care.

Since the dedication of the Hospital many improvements have been made in the building and on the grounds. Last year the exterior and interior of the hospital were decorated, which encountered a large expense. Within the last few months an ambulance was purchased with the aid of our Hospital Ladies' League, and at the present time they are completing a fuel room, which was indeed needed and places them under extra expense.

They again appeal to the generosity of the public to help carry on the work of charity by donating, and making Hospital Tag Day, September 29, a success.

PLAN TO CARE FOR ARMY DIVI-SION AT CAMP SITE.

M. N. G. Board Arranges to Place Ohio Guard at Grayling.

The engineering and quartermas ter's departments of the Michigan National guard are at work upon plans o house an entire division of soldiers at the Grayling military reservation.

While there is no immediate danger of a mobilization which would render it necessary to place a full division at Grayling, the officers want to have their plans on paper so that when a call comes they will be ready.

Michigan has one complete brigad but is combined by the bureau of mili tia affairs of the war department, with Ohio into a division. Ohio, under this plan furnishes two brigades, bu Ohio has no permanent camp so that if the divisions should be ordered mobilized, it would have to be done a Grayling.

Last week Colonel Walter Rogers quartermaster-general of the Michi gan guard, put the engineers to work on the division mobilization plans The work consists of locating sites for what permanent building will be necessary. Under the system in vogue "knocked down houses" can be sent to camps and put up within a few hours. With plans drawn, an entire division camp could be raised within a day almost. Thus the Michigan Guard will be ready for any order given from the Washington head-

As far as the state is concerned, no improvements are planned for the Grayling reservation until spring. Most of the new work will be road building. A new set of permanent stables for the cavalry will be erected. The stables at the Hanson reservation now belong to the artillery and were used last August by the cavalry because the artillery was a Sparta, Wis.

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS AMBASSADOR TO SETTLE PROBLEM

COUNT VON BERNSTORFF HAS POWER TO ACT FOR GERMANY.

EARLY HARMONY EXPECTED

Berlin Hopeful That Diplomat Can Adjust Submarine Disputes With the United States.

Berlin-A full settlement of the submarine problem can probably be arranged by negotiations in Washington Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, is in possession of complete information regarding the wishes and policy of Germany, according to reliable reports and has been given power to negotiate terms of settlement with the Un ted States, subject only to final revision and approval by the home gov ernment.

A long report on the submarine situation was received here from Count von Bernstorff Thursday and an equally long message of instructions went forward to the ambassado Saturday morning. Both dispatches were of a nature which seems to make the officials confident that the whole submarine problem can be speedily and satisfactorily settled.

The form which the negotiation are now taking goes to strengthen this optimism, for in such sations Count von Bernstorff is in a position to communicate many things not adapted to inclusion in a public note, but which are of a nature to convene the American government of the good faith behind Germany's assurances and the government's settled determination move the sources of the conflict on the submarine.

The hope is expressed here that the negotiations can be pushed through without delay, and that no further issues may be brought in to complicate a settlement.

In An Appeal of Ganaley Case Firs Test of Corrupt Practices Act Will Be Made Before Supreme Court

Lansing-The state of Michigan will have tomorrow funds to run the state government within the next two months. That is the word passed out among state officers Saturday.

Auditor General Fuller calls atten tion to the state's finances and makes a comparison of the general fund fi nances as compared with previous years. September balances in 1916 showed a balance in the general fund of $697,052; 1911, $624,558; 1912, $2, 266,142; 1913, $1,503,117; 1914, $3, 008,691 and 1915, $1,027,735. At the close of business Friday night, there was a balance in the general fund of bass, calico bass, perch, walled eyed

Advices from Detroit are to the effect that much fault is found in the workings of the garnishee law in Wayne county by justices of the peace. After dismissing a case brought before him Saturday, Justice Theodore J. Richter took occasion to vigorously denounce the law and announced that he would endeavor to secure its amendment.

This bill has been before the state auditors in different forms for the past several years. The last legislature passed an act authorizing the state at ditors to settle the bill if they considdered it a valid claim, and the matter would have been adjusted Tuesday had not Superintendent of Public Ir struction Keeler asked for more time in which to investigate.

Secretary of State Vaughan and State Treasurer Haarer were convinced that the claim was valid and that the bill should be paid. It was decided to bring the matter up again in two weeks. If the claim is allow ed, the bill will not be paid until February as the funds in the state treas ury are low at present.

According to an opinion rendered Friday by attorney-general's department for the game warden, when the legislature put a limit on the number of bluegills, sunfish, rock bass, white pike and crappie, it put a limit on the total of the various kinds that could legally be taken with hook and line. The way the attorney-general's department construed the new fishing law, a fisherman can take but 25 of the above fish, all told. This limit does not apply to any one variety but the total number.

The opinion was asked for by the game warden's department. The question had been asked deputies and had been variously answered, although the majority of the deputies, headed by Game Warden Oates himself, had informed questioners that 25 of each kind was meant.

WAR CORRESPONDENT RETURNS AFTER FIGURING IN DUMBA INCIDENT.

Claims Ignorance of Nature of Communication to Austria That Was Taken From Him in England.

New York-James F. J. Archibald. the American war correspondent from whom the British military authorities took a letter written by Dr. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador to the United States, to Baron von Buriau, Austrian minister for foreign affairs. in which there was outlined a plan to cripple the manufacture of war munitions in this country, returned to New York Monday on the steamer Rotterdam.

As the boat came up the bay he was subjected to a brief inquiry by Chief William J. Flynn, of the secret service, on the matter of a goldheaded cane. Among the reports that had been circulated concerning him since he was arrested and taken from the Rotterdam at Falmouth, was one that Archibald carried with him a gold-headed cane which had been hollowed out and which was supposed to contain official information for the Austrian government.

Mr. Archibald told Chief Flynn that the report was a myth, that he carried no such cane and the only gifts which he was taking to Europe were small clock for Countess von Bernstorif, wife of the German ambassador, and a bonbon dish for the Princess Hatzfeldt. He gave his word of honor that this was so. Whereupon the inquiry ended. Later in the day Archibald gave out a statement after a long consultation with his counsel, Frank J. Hogan, of Washington, in which he reiterated his declaration that he knew nothing of the nature of Dr. Dumba's communication. He then talked freely for half an hour with reporters, detailing his experiences with the British authorities and with Mr. Van Dyke, United States minister to Holland, who took up his passport when he arrived at The Hague and gave him another that paved the way for his return to this country.

He asserted emphatically that he would not knowingly have done anything detrimental to his own country.

Cattle valuations are only about four-sevenths of those for represent 80 per cent of the total live stock valuations, swine representing 7.1 per cent; sheep, 7 per cent and poultry, 4.1 per cent. Horses. In 1910 there were 610,033 horse and colts on Michigan farms, valued at $71,312,474. Horses were reported on 89 per cent of the farms in the state, but only 15.6 per cent reported colts foaled in 1909, despite the facthat horses are both scarce and high priced. There is no reason why farm work mare, properly fed and handled cannot produce a good year's work and a strong, vigorous foal at the same time. The climate, soil and crop products of a large portion of Michigan are eminently adapted to the production of heavy horses, for which the market is so willing to pay a pre mium. Michigan is a purchaser rather spect she is neglecting a valuable opportunity. At this writing, though we have probably reached the crest of the high wave of horse prices, the indi-cations are that there will be good profits in horse breeding for some time to come. Mules and mule colts are reported from 1,865 Michigan farms, to the number of 3,700, worth Beef and Dairy Cattle.

Cattle numbering 1,497,823 head, valued at $40,500,318, are reported on 185,081 farms or 89.4 per cent of all farms, though in some cases the stock consisted of one or more cows only for the production of family dairy At this time there was a total of 767,083 dairy cows, worth $29,-312,252. During this year the dairy products of Michigan farms, not including milk and cream for home use. was $26,727,538, rating the state in eighth place. There has been a constant increase in dairy cattle and their products in the state during the decade and a half. Much improvement has resulted from improved methods of breeding through the greatly extended use of pedigreed sires, including Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey breeds. There never was such a keen demand for dairy cattle as at present, with prices at an unprecedentedly high level. Large other hand, however, with our abun areas of the unreclaimed portion of the northern part of the state are legumes, cereals, corn and root crops eminently adapted for dairy produc-

The number of cattle other than dairy cows amounted to 730,740 head, worth $11,188,076. These animals were not all of the beef type, as the classification contained both males and all but were reported from only 26.5 per young stock of both beef and dairy breeds under fifteen months of age. The number of dairy cows given in a preceding paragraph, undoubtedly includes many grade animals largely of beef breeding, such as Shorthorn grades which are at least average milk producers. The conditions confronting the settler were not favorable to cattle production, for the country was heavily timbered and the grasses growing within the forest shades and along the water courses and swamps were sparse in the former case, and unnutritious in the latter. The settler was all absorbed in land clearing for crop production and his live stock equipment was meager, consisting of one or more cows and a few pigs and chickens, to provide meat and milk to meet the family necessities. The pioneer's sacrifices in crop production made him loath to feed to stock, the products of a soil reclaimed at so heef cattle were introduced into Michigan at early dates, Devons in 1840, Shorthorns, 1843; Galloways, 1854; Herefords, 1864, and Aberdeen Angus in 1884. Devons, though numerous at one time, have practically disappeared. The production of beef flourished in Michigan almost up to the 90's, when the abundant cheap productions of the West became a serious competitive factor, from which the industry has not yet fully recovered. During the interval which elapsed in the transition from beef to dairy production, no section of Michigan where the right has occurred an indiscriminate admixof the blood of both beef and dairy breeds, which produced a lack of uniformity in conformation and func-tion that will require years of good breeding to overcome. The proper conditions prevail and indications at present point strongly to a revival of beef production in Michigan, but on an entirely different basis from that originally followed. Alfalfa, clover, of $296,742 (ranking second). Michicorn and ensilage, feeds which have gan's tree, crop, wild plant and weed made the dairy of the state are equally well suited for meat making. During the past two decades educational influences of all classes reaching the farmers, have been busily engaged stimulating dairy production, while the beef growing business has received little or no attention. The opportunities for producing beef, mutton and wool by grazing on the cut-cedure are generally known. Swine. Swine were reported on 63.6 per cent of Michigan farms in 1910, to the number of 1,245,833 head, valued at $9,755,042. It may be difficult for this state, except for the southerly tiers of counties, to compete on an even basis with the corn belt in the production of lard type hogs. On the dant supplies of dairy by-products we have conditions eminently adapted to the production of the choicest bacon, an industry as yet scarcely begun

Sheep. Sheep and lambs in 1910 numbered 3,306,476 head, valued at $9,646,565, cent of the farms of the state. Michigan has long been famous as a sheer breeding and feeding state, occupying a place in the front rank as regards the opening up of the western ranges As breeding ewes were reported 54.146 farms, the indications point to the maintenance in fair degree sheep breeding operations in the older settled portions of the state, despite the large use of western feeding stocks in our fattening pens. Consid ering the total area of the state available for grazing nurnoses and the fact rials and by-products, there is still be fore us great possibility for the de velopment of the sheep industry.

Poultry. The number of farms in Michigan n 1910 reporting poultry, amounted to 91.5 per cent, with total valuations of $5,610,958. This sum, representing values of stocks only on farms amounts to over half the total value tions of sheep or swine, and represents a very valuable asset as the re turns from the farm poultry flock are almost clear gain throughout the year procuring a living largely from what would otherwise be waste material The total number of fowls raised in the state in 1909, including cities towns, and villages, was 12,877,537 head, valued at $6,191,440. The egg production for 1909 was 59,915,851 dozens, worth $11,734,799. There is

The extension service of the agri cultural college is making rapid ad vances in rural organization, now well represented by co-operative live stock breeders' associations, cow test associations, experiment union, alfalfa clubs, and tuvenile corn and vegetable growing clubs. In this suit the skirt is not extreme ly wide. It has a flat panel at the front and back and is shaped to flare, with inverted plaits where the side gores are set in. It should be shorter than it is pictured here, extending not more than an inch or two below the top of the average walking shoe. It fits smoothly (but not tight) about the hips, and fastens at the side.

The long coat is long-waisted, with the slightly curving line at the under-arm seam which makes of it a semifitted model. It is becomingly doublebreasted, and this is a point that women will do well to consider, for it does much for the figure. The straight loose-fitting sleeves are finished with a narrow cuff of velvet, headed with a band of skunk fur. The collar and belt are of the fur also.

Ribbon and Lace in Headwear

Ribbons and laces continue to set other edge of the ribbon and run a off the faces of maids and matrons during many hours of the day at

A cap is shown at the left of the picture given here which sells for fifty cents. It may be had in any of the lovely colors into which ribbons are dyed. Jonquil yellow, rose color and blue are great favorites just now It takes a yard of ribbon about five inches wide to make it, and a yard of narrow ribbon, one inch or a little less in width, to make the three small ribbon flowers and the short loops that decorate it. A yard of shadow lace edges the wide ribbon for a frill about the cap. This lace is bought in a five-inch width and split lengthwise to form two strips, one three inches wide and one two inches wide. The wider strip is used for the frill about the face, and the narrower is gathered along one edge with a plaque to form the center of the crown.

To make the cap sew the lace edge to the ribbon with two rows of stitching to form a casing for an elastic band that is to be run in it. Sew the narrower lace strip to the gathering thread along its outer edge. Pull the thread up tightly and fasten it securely to form the center of the cap crown. Place a little ribbon flower here to finish it.

Cut a length of elastic cord just long enough to extend about the head, and run in the casing formed of the lace, joining the ends. The small ribbon flowers are made of five petals each, either cut from the ribbon and made separately or formed by gathering the ribbon to simulate petals. Millinery stamens are used for the centers.

A very wide ribbon is used for the cap at the right. It is shaped to the head by means of narrow tucks into which small cords are run. A bow of narrower ribbon trims the front narrow ribbon are placed at the back all of the same color as the cap, Four buckles, made of tiny chiffon roses in blue, yellow, pink and lavender or pale green require patient and efficient work in making. A frill of cream-colored lace falls under the ribbon frill about the face.

Opening of Gymnaslum for Winter.

Thursday, Sept. 30th, we will be ready to start work in the gymnasium for the Winter. No one should miss this night as much depends on a good understanding of the work from the beginning. It is the intention of the instructor to give all the best of physical training and, in order to do so, he wants to have a heart to heart talk with all who intend to be members before starting the work. Sept. 30. is set aside for that. There will be no application blanks on file. Be present on the above date and sign your name and if you can pass the physical examiation, you are a member.

Letter of Appreciation.

MY DEAR EDITOR OF THE AVALANCHE Will you please allow me a little space in your valued and esteemed paper to thank all the people of Crawford county and especially of Grayling. dare not at this time mention any names, for they all took a part. It always has been the heighth of my ambition that if the people of Gray ling ever did do any great thing for me it would be while I was alive, so I could see for myself, as Job said, and not another, and I want to say to all that took a part in the entertaining of the soldiers and sailors and their wives and the golden wedding for Hubbard and wife and all their friends, and made it one of the most pleasant times of their lives. Please accept our thanks for the great success from the start to the finish, and if it should be my lot to not live to enjoy another reunion, may the good Lord bless you all and keep you, and just remember that you surely have done all for me you can. Please accept thanks and love and best wishes.

Kenneth Griswold, an unsuccessful writer because of socialistic tendencies, holds up Andrew Galbraith, president of the Bayou State Securities, in the president of socialistic states of the Bayou State Securities, in the president's private office and escapes with $100,000 in cash, He goes aboard the Belle Julie as a deckhand, Charlotte Farnham of Wahaska, Minn, who had seen him cash Galbraith's check in the bank, recentlies him, and sends a letter of betrayal to Galbraith anonymously. Griswold is arrested in St. Louis, but escapes from his captors. He decides on Wahaska, Minn, as a hidiag place, and takes the train. He falls ill on the sleeper and is cared for and taken to her home in Wahaska by Margery Grierson, daughter of Jasper Grierson, the fancial magnate of Wahaska. Margery dads the stolen Wahaska by Margery Grierson, daughter of Jasper Grierson, the financial magnate of Wahaska. Margery finds the stolen money in Griswold's sultcase. Broffin, detective, takes the trail. Margery asks her father to get Edward Raymer into financial hot water and then help him out of it. Griswold recovers to find the stolen money gone. He forms a friendship with Raymer, the iron manufacturer. Broffin comes to Wahaska in scarch of the woman who wrote the anonymous letter to Galbraith. 'Name it," said Raymer eagerly. "I will; but first I'll have to break over into the personalities. Have you made up your mind that you are going to marry Margery Grierson?"

Raymer laughed silently, leaning his head back on the cushion of the lazychair until his cigar stood upright.

That's a nice way to biff a man in the dark!" he chuckled. "But if you're in earnest I'll tell you the straightforward truth: I don't know.'

"You mean that Margery Grierson doesn't measure up to the requirements of the Wahaskan Four Hundred?" There was satirical scorn in the observation, but Raymer did not perceive it.

'Oh, I don't know as you would put it quite that baldly," he protested. "But you see, when it comes to marrving and settling down and raising a amily, you have to look at all sides of the thing. The father, as we all know. is a cold-blooded old were-wolf; the mother nobody knows anything about save that-happily, in all probability save that—happing, in an probability—she isn't living. "I came here with my own back-load of trouble, but it seems that I'm not the only camel in the caravan," said the young ironmaster, thoughtfully 'What is it, Kenneth? anything you can unload on me?"

"You wouldn't understand," was the gentle evasion.

Once again Raymer took refuge in silence. After a time he said: "You've been a brother to me. Griswold, and I shall never forget that. But if I needed your help in the money pinch, I'm needing it worse now. I'll do the right thing by Margery; I think I've meaning to, all along; if I haven't, it's only because this whole town has been flxing up a match between Charlotte and me ever since we were school kids together-you know how a fellow gets into the way of taking a thing like that for granted mere ly because everybody else does?'

Later, a big, red-faced man with his hat on the back of his head and a paste diamond in his shirt bosom, came to join the shifting group on the of-fice sidewalk. Broffin marked him. The man's name was Clancy: he was a Chicago ward worker, sham labor leader, demagogue; a bad man with a "pull." What chance had brought the Chicago ward bully into a village labor fight he was not long in finding. Clancy had come because he had been and gagged by this labor outfit to live or die as I may? Great Scott, man! easy. The town gossips had supplied if my money's gone, yours goes with all the major facts of the Raymer-Grierson checkmate, and Broffin saw a great light. Wahaska was duly thrilled and excited when, on the day following the storm and shipwreck, it found itself the scene of an angry conflict between capital and labor. It was a crude surprise, both to the West side and to 'Pottery Flat," to find the new bookwriting partner not only taking an ac tive part in the fight, but apparently directing the capitalistic hostilities with a high hand. At half-past four it was whispered about that war had been declared. It was an hour beyond the normal quitting time on the day of ultimatums and counter-threatenings, the small office force had gone home, and the night squad of deputies had come to relieve the day guard. Griswold closed the spare desk in the manager's room "We may as well go and get some-thing to eat," he suggested. "There will be nothing doing tonight."

Raymer began to put his desk in or

"No, not tonight. The trouble will begin when we try to start up with a new force. Call it a weakness if you like, but I dread it, Kenneth."

Griswold's smile was a mere bar-ing of the teeth. "That's all right, Ned; you do the dreading and I'll do the fighting," he said; adding: "What we've had today has merely whetted my appetite." The man of peace shook his head dejectedly.

"I can't understand it," he protested. "Up to last night I was calling you a benevolent socialist, and my only fear was that you might some time want to reorganize things and turn the plant into a little section of Utopia. Now you are out heroding Herod on the other side.'

But both times the rearward sidewalk showed itself empty. Since false alarms may have, for the moment, all the shock of the real, he found that his hands were trembling when he came to unlatch the Grierson gate, and it made him vindictively self-scornful. Also, it gave him a momentary glimpse into another and hitherto unmeasured depth in the valley of stumblings. DRAW MOISTURE FROM WATCH

Timenièce le Not Necessarily Ruines If Unfortunately It Has Been Water-Soaked.

What to do with a water-soaked watch is often a problem when one is caught in the wilderness, or in a comnity where no leweler is to be Lack of knowing what steps to take often results in much expense if not in the utter ruin of the watch Watches made with both a screw face and screw back may be dried easily by removing the front and back emptying the watch of as much water as will run out, reversing the crystal screwing it on the back of the watch and then laying it where the sun will have a chance to reflect through the crystal.

The heat of the sun on the crystal will draw the moisture from the works in fifteen or twenty minutes, says the Technical World. If water still remains in the works, the crystal may be unscrewed, wiped and replaced, and the process repeated.

After the sun fails to draw any more of the water out of the glass it is safe to conclude that there is no more in the works, and the oil originally on them, warmed by the sun lubricates the parts.

There should be no more trouble with the watch, although it is advisable to have it examined by a jeweler at the earliest opportunity.

NORWAY.

Norwegian shipowners complain bitterly against the practice of English warships in forcing Norwegian vessels bound for Norway to put back to a British port. In many cases these Norwegian ships have been outside the war zone, and, on their being forced to return to British ports they have been the victims of German submarines. Had the vessels been left alone by the British ships they would have reached their home port safely. Protests from Norway to England have been met by the answer that the British government will hold itself responsible for Norwegian shipping that is treated in this manner, but the Norwegian owners continue to see their ships destroyed.

The question has become especially acute since the Norwegian-American line steamer Trondhjemsford was tor pedoed by a German submarine July 31. An English cruiser had stopped the steamer, put a prize crew on board and directed the vessel's course to Kirkwall, when the torpedoing occurred. The Norwegian press, complaining against the British admiralty asserts that the steamer was loaded in New York under the supervision of three inspectors from the British consulate who sealed the ship's hatches and among the ship's papers was an affidavit from the consulate to the effect that the ship had no other cargo than what the papers showed. Aside from this, the Norwegian government had guaranteed that possible contra-band would not be reshipped from Norway to any of the belligerent coun Notwithstanding this the ship was seized, prize flag hoisted and the unlawful prize was directed toward Kirkwall. The chief of the German submarine torpedoed the steamer be-cause it was bought from England last December and was, therefore, according to his instructions, considered to be an English ship.

The loss of Norwegian ships since the war broke out a year ago amounts to about $10,000,000, of which only $4,000,000 was covered by insurance the rest falls on the shipowners. The majority of the ships have been torpedoed by German submarines, several without warning.

Norwegian owners of autombiles are hard hit by the announcement of dealers that the supply of tires has been exhausted and it is impossible to replenish the stock to any extent because the belligerent countries are taking up all the world's supply. At present it is said there is not a new tire to be bought at any price any where in Norway. The situation is much more than annoying, for it will have a serious economical effect on Norwegian farming. It is doubtful if any country has adopted the automo bile more extensively in a public way for in Norway the sparsely-settled hills have never been able to support railways, and the automobile has comto be the principal means of communication and transportation both for the farmer and commercial men. The in numerable cars which have been put to service in recent years are all of foreign manufacture, for there is no automobile factory in Norway, and the same is true as to oil, gasoline and

The Bergen Mekaniske Verksted, shipbuilding firm, has offered to a floating dock which may be used by the navy, provided the governwill give a bonus of $67.500 and loan the firm $81,000 on easy terms. In case such a dock is built the government shall have a right to use it when ever it is found necessary. The military committee has expressed itself in favor of the proposition.

A Norwegian who has spent part of his life in America and is now resid ing in Christiania has written to a friend in Minneapolis that he is disgusted with the foreign policy of two of the leading political parties. The Social Democrats polled 27 per cent of the vote at the last election, and now the party comes out openly in favor of disarmament. But this is not all. Premier Knudsen, the head of the party in power, has said that he would rather support the Social Democrats than the Rightists, who are in favor of strong defenses.

The Independent Order of Good Templars held its annual meeting at Anlesund. The reports show that it has a membership of 9 319. The budget of expenses for the coming year was put at $10,000. Among the appropriations were $1,000 for the world's grand lodge, $1,700 for office help and stationery, $2,500 for travel ing expenses, $270 for the prohibition campaign and $890 for salaries. Three hundred dollars was raised for po litical campaign work. The next an nual receting will be held at Namsos.

Announcement is made in a Copen hagen dispatch of the amalgamation of two of the greatest moving picture production companies in Germany and Denmark respectively. The capital of the combined enterprise will be nearly $3,000,000. A number of German pro lucers have already arrived in Coper hagen to arrange the details of the al-liance. The effect may be far-reaching, as the Danish firm sells its films There is a prospect, therefore, that German films, produced in Denmark. may be shown during the coming season in London, Paris and Rome. There were 19,800 marriages in Denmark in 1914. This was 6.9 per 1,000 inhabitants, the population being put at 2.859.000. The number of births was 73,300, of deaths 35,900. This made the birth rate 25.6 per 1,000 and the death rate 12.6 per 1,000. The marriages were fewer than in 1913, which to some extent was due to the fact that many young men were prevented from marrying by being called to the

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL Assistant to the Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT-He was there in the prison. But he Lord was with Joseph.—Gen. 39:20, 21.

Joseph's prison was made gloomy that after his kindness to the chief buyler the latter forgot him Yet there was light in the prison and that in sev eral directions. Prisoners of the Lord. To begin with the text tells us that "the Lord was with Joseph." sometimes in singing one of our hymns:

Prisons would palaces prove If Jesus would dwell with me there. Paul was enabled to write the epistic the Philippians with its keyword 'Rejoice," from the Roman prison John Bunyan in his "den" at Bedford saw Immanuel's land and the Delect able mountains. Madam Guyon said like a bird, with nothing to do but

Again, the Lord gave Joseph favo in the sight of the keeper of the prison (Gen. 39:21). The hearts of kings are in the hand of God and his afflicted people may be certain that God is not at a loss when he wishes to re them. Stories more fascinating than fiction could be written from the lives of Christians who have been given favor in the sight of the great ones of earth. The Lord kept Joseph unselfish

Most of us would have felt justified in nursing our troubles, but this man had "a heart at leisure from itself; to soothe and sympathize." One morning Joseph noticed that his fellow pris oners, the butler and baker, looked sad. He immediately inquired the cause and proceeded to help them to the best of his ability. After all, the best way to bear one's burdens is to help bear the burdens of others. More over, although Joseph little realized it, his interest in these prisoners marked a crisis in his life; as a result of it he finally came to the throne of Egypt, but he was ready for the crisis only because he was daily caring for the interests of others. How little we know of the crises which every day will bring forth, and how we need to walk habitually so as to please God if we are to meet these crises ade quately!

It is evident that the Lord preserved the faith of Joseph. We recall his own dreams when 'n his father's house, and the assurance they gave him that he would come to a of elevation over his father and breth ren; but here he was in the dungeon and he would have seemed justified had he lost faith in dreams. Yet that this was not the case is evident from his interpretation of the dreams of the butler and baker, and his confidence that God would bring them to pass. Psaim 105:19 (R. V.) tells us that "until the time that h came to pass, the word of the Lord tried him."

The Lord kept Joseph unretaliating When speaking with the chief butle he said. "I have done nothing that they should put me into the dungeon" (Gen. 40:15). Not a word does he utter concerning that wicked woman, Potiplar's wife, who had designed his ruin. How slow even Christians are to learn that they need do no unkind thing in order to fulfill the per plans of God! "He shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light and thy judgment as the noonday."

Hoping in God

Altogether, God was training Joseph to hope in himself alone and to obey him in any event. Doubtless his hopes of deliverance were high when the long years passed before deliverance came. By the grace of God Joseph was kept from growing rebellious, but persisted in the way of duty. When God finds a man who will plod on delighting to do his will under all circumstances, he will quickly set him in a large place and put a scepter in his hand. Joseph was in training for a throne and so are all true followers of Christ.

What a misfortune if the chief butler had remembered Joseph according to his promise! Joseph might have heen delivered from the prison and sent away a free man out of the land, but scarcely more than this. How his story encourages us to trust and not be afraid!

The Christian's Easy Chair. An aged Christian woman living in deep poverty was asked how she bore her troubles. She said when they became especially heavy she sat in ner easy chair and rocked them away. The visitor looked about for this wonderful chair, but saw no trace of it until finally the happy saint explained that it was Romans 8:28, "All things work together for good to them that love God."

We often forget that a church is an ducational institution. For a man to absent himself from church services ecause he feels a religious deficiency is like a boy staying away from school because he is ignorant.-The Christian

Autoist Rescuer Also Saves Dinner From Blazing Stove in New Jersey Town.

A. R. Gerber, a local clothing mer chant, was the hero at a fire to which he was called as he was passing through Hartford in his automobile on nis way home from Philadelphia. When a woman ran from her house and yelled that her kitchen was on fire Gerber didn't need any second alarm. Slamming on the emergency brake, he jumped from his machine before it was stopped and found the gasoline stove ablaze.

Calmly moving some furniture out of his way and taking the woman's dinner from the stove so it would not be ruined, he pulled the blazing stove right out the back door and landed it where it could do no further damage except to itself .-- Mount Holly (N. J.) Dispatch Philadelphia Record

35th ANNUAL FAIR AT GAYLORD GRAND CHAPTER ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR

> Will Hold Business and Entertainment Session at Battle Creek Oct. 12, 13, 14.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept, 1st. This city has started its prepartion for the entertainment of the Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, meeting in Battle Creek, October 12, 12, 13th and 14th. The Chamber of Commerce, the City officials and the Convention League, with the Merchants' Association are working together to make this the largest and best meeting of the Eastern Stars ever held in this state. The Tabernacle, which will seat 30000 people has been secured for the use of the Eastern Star delegates for their official sessions, while the reception and ball will be held in the new $85,000 Masonic Temple, which is considered one of the finest in the state. The Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., will entertain all the delegates and their friends on Tuesday afternoon, at their great pure food plant. The private art collection of the late C. W. Post, consisting of over a hundred paintings in oil and water colors by some of the world's greatest artists, will be open to the Eastern Stars and guests. The Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co, will entertain at their magnificent plant on Wednesday morning. The Battle Creek Sanitarium, the largest of its kind in the world, will keep "open house" during that week, and all delegates and visitors will have the priviledge of going through this great health institution. The County Club will tender the use of their golf grounds and club house to members of other gulf clubs and during that week there will be added attractions at Goguac Lake which adjoins the city. Preparations are being made to entertain 3500 Eastern Star delegates and their friends during this meeting, and the city will be handsomely decorated for this occasion. The grand Eastern Star ball and reception will be on Tuesday night, October 12, tendered by the local Chapters of the Eastern Star to the Worthy Grand Matron and Grand Chapter Officials.
